What is an Adult Home?

An Adult Home is a New York State-licensed adult care facility that provides long-term residential care including room, all meals and snacks, housekeeping, laundry, 24-hour supervision, assistance with medications, personal care assistance, case management services, and structured activity programs to people 18 years or older.

What is an Enriched Housing Program (EHP)?

An Enriched Housing Program is a New York State-licensed adult care facility that provides long-term residential care to adults, primarily persons 65 years of age or older, including an individual apartment, some meals, housekeeping, laundry, supervision, assistance with medications, personal care assistance, case management services, and structured activity programs.

What is an Assisted Living Program (ALP)?

The Assisted Living Program (ALP) is an Adult Home or Enriched Housing Program that is certified by the New York State Department of Health to provide Medicaid-funded home care services. The ALP is an alternative to nursing home care that enables nursing home eligible people to receive home health care services in the Adult Home or Enriched Housing Program, delaying or preventing the need for admission to a nursing home. Care services are provided by an on-site licensed home care agency operated by the Adult Home or Enriched Housing Program and a community certified home health agency (CHHA) under contract.
